The play Tovar (Goods) was created by inspiration from autobiographical book by Tatiana Melasová. It is a first production of this work and also the directorial debut of Michaela Hriňová, student of the third year of the Department of Dramaturgy. Together with dramaturge Martina Havierová and with actors of the third year, they tried to see the story from drug environment from a different perspective. This created a play in which they offer a different point of view to this problematic and try to bring it closer to the audience, just by that it will be really closer – right in Slovakia.

Melisa comes from ideal family, ideal environment and conditions, falls into bigger and bigger addiction – until she can not find the way out of it. During drug addiction she is not ruining herself but also her closest ones. She risks every day by taking drugs and prostitution. Melisa tells her story, sometimes from a distance, sometimes she relives her old wounds. But can she go back to where she started?
